THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1857.

THE BIG SANDY RAILROAD CONNECTION .- The vote of the stockholders of the Louisville and Frankfort Railroad Company upon the proposed subscription of $100,000, on the part of that company, to the stock of the Lexington and Big Sandy road will be taken on the 22d inst. We earnestly hope that the subscription will be ordered and that the stockholders will remember to vote, because every share of stock not voted will be counted in the negative.

It was to us that this is the most important proever submitted to the stockholders of the Frankfort Company. It will decide the fate of their road, whether it shall always remain what it now is merely a neighborhood road, dependent entirely upon the trade and travel between Louisville and Lexington, or whether it shall ultimately become a connecting link in a great thoroughfare over which will pass a large portion of the whole passenger and freight business between the North and East and the South and West. The opportunity is now presented to the stockholders to secure to their road the advantages of becoming a part of a great Northern and Southern through route. They should promptly avail themselves of this opportunity for it will probably never occur again.

If any supineness or indifference on the part of the stockholders should cause this subscription to be rejected, the Lexington and Big Sandy road will be compelled to look elsewhere for aid, and to form other connections, making a break of guage with our road at Lexington. There would then be little prospect of any very considerable increase in the business or profit of the Louisville and Lexington road. The completion of the Covington and Lexington road has already taken away a large portion of the trade that was expected to be tributary to our road. The extension of the Covington road beyond Danville will subtract from the Louisville road still another portion of the business of Jessamine, Garrard, and Boyle counties which we have hither controlled. The completion of the Lebanon branch of the Nashville road will also draw off a portion of the trade which now contributes to the business of our Lexington road, and, while the sources of business of the Louisville and Lexington road will be thus in every direction contracted and reduced, there is nothing to compensate for such losses except the slow natural increase of way travel and traffic upon the immediate line of the road, unless an arrangement shall be made for the extension of our Lexington road through Mt. Sterling to the mouth of the Big Sandy by means of a uniform gauge and connection with the Big Sandy road such as is now proposed to be secured by the subscription of $100,000 to the stock of the Big Sandy

If this subscription is made, the uniform gauge and connection from Louisville to the mouth of the Big Sandy will be secured. The gauge will be different from that of the Covington and Lexington road. This break of gauge is estimated as equal to fifty miles of road, and thus Louisville will be brought actually, in point of time and expense of travel, nearer than Cincinnati to a large, rich, and prosperous section of our State which has hitherto been tributary to Cincinnati. The actual increas of business and earnings of the Frankfort road thus secured will many times overpay the amount of the subscriptions before the maturity of the bends issued in payment therefor, and our road will thus be made the connecting link in a great thoroughfare of travel and transportation having no break of gauge except at Louisville between the Atlantic cities and the Mississippi river at Memphis, connecting also with the Georgia, Alabama, and South Carolina roads.

The interests of the city of Louisville and of the stockholders of the Louisville and Frankfort Company are dentical in reference to this subscription. We hope that every friend of this road who is a stockholder will be sure to vote in favor of the subscription

The Gas Company of New Albany has shut off the lights in consequence of the scarcity of coal.

DREADFUL ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that a serious accident a short time ago befel Mr. James H. Bunce, late of this city, and now of the village of Jeffersonville, on the St. Francis river, Ark., and brother of our fellow-citizen Capt. Joseph H. Bunce. Mr. Bunce was running a steam saw mill, and while stepping between the end of a log and the saw, had his foot nearly torn off. The saw struck him about the centre of the foot on the outside, tearing and lacerating it in a most dreadful manner. One bone, about two and a half inches long, leading from the small toe, was extracted, and the next two toes were broken and fractured.

Dr. W. N. Patton, the attending physician of Mr. B., writes us that the broken limbs will doubtless have to be removed; which will render him a cripple

GAME FOR THE EAST .- The epicure who seats himself at the dining table of the Astor or St. Nicholas, or in the family saloons of Thompson or Taylor, gives no thought, we imagine, to the fields whence come the sources of his enjoyment. He never thiks of the hunter in Indiana, and other Western States, who, day by day, are wasting ammunition and learning the use of the rifle for his benefit. The New York market is supplied in a great measure with game from this section of the West, and through the Adams Exdress Company it reaches its destination safely, soundly, and sweetly.

We yesterday saw at the office of the company in this city several articles of dear game, destined to tickly the palates of the Knickerbockers.

U. S. AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION .- The committee during a few hours yesterday obtained $12,-000 bona fide subscriptions toward the $20,000 necessary to secure the holding of the next U. S. Annual Exhibition at our fair grounds. No one can doubt the advantage of this enterprise to Louisville, and we feel proud of our citizens in seeing the pub lic spirit manifested in this undertaking. The committee will continue their labors to-day, and we ask our readers who have not duly considered the importance of this matter to give it a few moments' reflection, confident that their conclusions will induce liberal subscriptions.

FINANCES OF THE AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION We present in another column the annual financial report of the Southwestern Agricultural Association. The receipts for the past year amounted to $16,362 13. The expenditures were $16,256 64. There is due the Society the amount of $10,580. The indebtedness of the Society is $14,969 77, leaving a balance due by the Association, after exhausting all its available means, of $3,994 28.

In order to relieve the Association of its liabilities, the Finance Committee very wisely recommends that a fair be held in the spring. We hope that this recommendation will be adopted.

One of the city papers stated the other day that an election had been held in Memphis to decide whether the city should extend further aid to the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad, and that only twenty votes were cast, ten on each side. There was no foundation whatever for the statement, no election having been held. On Wednesday of last week, the City Council of Memphis adopted an ordinance, granting all necessary aid to the road on acceptable conditions. We have no doubt that the work will be vigorously prosecuted. Its completion will add incalculably to the prosperity of Memphis.

The Missouri Legislature is about to adjourn to meet at St. Louis. The cause of the contemplated movement is the exorbitant price of board at the capital, and the difficulty experienced in getting accommodations. Provisions, liquors, luxuries, cigars and cards have to be transported from St. Louis to supply the tables at the capital, and the consequence is that members have to pay ten dollars a week for board, and get very short commons at that. Efforts will be made to secure the Court House or the Mercantile Library Hall for the sittings of the body.

Is Virtue Hereditary?—Is the love of truth, justice, and goodness transmitted from parents to children? Factappear to answer these questions in the affirmative. Is England it has been ascertained that, out of one hundred criminal children, sixty were born of dishonest parents thirty who were profligate, not criminal; and only ten of parents who were honest and industrious.

English Papers.

This does not prove that moral qualities are inherited as physical features are. It proves only that the children of vicious parents, brought up under the influence of bad examples, are likely to be influenced through life thereby.

A young woman, who was brought before the Boston police, alleged in defence of her respectability that she was acquainted with all the lawyers in New York! She was committed for six months. Any young woman, who should make a similar acknowledgment in this city, would deserve to be committed for life.

STOCKS OF PORK AND BEEF IN NEW YORK .- The stock of pork in New York on the 1st inst. was 7,014 old and 6,032 now-total 13,046 bbls, against 32,678 bbls same time last year.

The stock of beef on the 1st inst. was 4,628 old and 14,860 new-total 19,488 bbls, against 84,588

To-day is the 8th of January, the anniversahaving elected a man to the Presidency whom Gen'l Jackson stigmajized as a moral coward and whom he charged with deep corruption.

THE LADY'S ALMANAC OF 1857.-We have re ceived a copy of this work from Messrs. Kirk & Clarke. It is an exceedingly pretty little volume of about one hundred and thirty pages. The ladies will find it equally interesting and useful. It has our most cordial recommendation. It contains all that ordinary almanacs do and a great deal more.

The general opinion in New York is that Gov Clark's pardoning of so many convicts of the worst character is unpardonable. He may think it hard, that, after pardoning all sorts of offenders, he can't be pardoned himself.

Twenty-two men have died during the year over 100 year old, and the same number of females. A slave woman in Virginia attained the age of 127; another in Louisiana 124 and one 120.—Albany Evening Journal.

Deesn't this show conclusively that slavery is remarkably healthy state of existence?

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river continues closed above and below, and we should not be surprised if it were frozen over this morning between this city and Jeffersonville. The spirit thermometer at Fletcher & Bennett's about daylight yesterday morning was 16° above zero, and their mercurial thermometer at 11 o'clock yesterday stood at 25° and at 5 o'clock last evening at 990 above zero.

The Cumberland was falling on Monday, with 31/2 feet water on the shoals.

The boats at the Six-mile island are in pretty much the same condition as before. We understand that Judge Spencer and several other gentlemen arrived in last evening's cars as a delegation from the board of underwriters of Cincinnati, and that they will visit the boats in the ice to-day, and, if necessary, make arrangements for unloading them and having their cargoes brought on shore.

The pilot of the Northerner reached here last eveing. The N. is in a safe harbor at Hawesville, and

The Moses McLellan at Evansville .- By Adams Express we received last evening the following interesting letter from our gallant and accomplished friend, Frank Smith, Jr., one of the clerks of the Moses McLellan. It will be seen that the McLellan broke through a gorge which other boats were no able to break through:

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

STEAMER MOSES MCLELLAN, Jan. 5, A. M. Gentlemen: We left New Orleans on the evening of the 28th ult., with 200 tons freight. Freights and passengers were very scarce in New Orleans. Boats passengers were very scarce in New Orleans. Boats were glad to load at 20c for through and 25c for way freight. At the time I am writing this, we are below Shawneetown, and the Wm. Baird is ahead of us. The ice here is very thin, but I do not know what we may encounter before we reach Evansville. Yours truly, FRANK SMITH.

Yours truly, FRANK SMITH.

Memorandum of the Moses McLellan.—Passed Pete

We have also by Adams' Express St. Louis papers of Tuesday evening. The News has the following: The Missouri river is gorged at Howard bend, and the Upper Mississippi at or near Cap au Gris, and, consequently, there is no great amount of ice floating past the city, only that which is made a short distance above this point. The ferry boats run as regularly as present as at any time this season, and are not in the least detained by the floating ice. There is at present a less amount of floating ice than has been seen for several days past, and the weather continues extremely cold. The water is falling, with somewhere between four and five feet in the channel to Cairo.

Steamer Orleons Raised.—A dispatch states that The Missouri river is gorged at Howard bend, and Steamer Orleons Raised .- A dispatch states that that the steamer Orleans, sunk on the 1st inst., at Commerce, has been raised and had arrived at Cairo. The steamer Yuba had been cut to pieces by the Lime. 476 42 ce and was a total wreck.

The steamer Pennsylvania broke her rudder and was towed by the Tropic to Cape Girardeau.

The steamers Swallow, J. W. Cheeseman, Maren go, and Yorktown are laid up at Charlestown landng. 18 miles above this. The Altamont, which was sunk about a week ago near Marietta, has been raised. Capt. Fawcett has contracted with Dowerman & Humphries, of New Albany, for a new boat. She is to be a large one.

SKATING-ACCIDENTS .- The intense cold of th past few days has thoroughly frozen the ponds and other bodies of still water, affording fine opportunities for enjoying the delightful and manly sport of skating. Immediately in front of the city the river is covered with very solid ice, and yesterday there was a great number of men and boys engaged in gliding upon their steel hoofs over the clear and crystal surface. But it was almost too rough for real pleasure, and we heard of several accidents resulting from trips upon the ice.

Among the most notable of these misadventures were those attending the distinguised Rector of St. Paul's Church and the well-known clerk of the board of aldermen. Both of these gentlemen tested the relative strengths of their sculls and the ice We are pleased to say that their heads remain intact, but that the ice was fractured where they came in

A SOLDIER IN ARREST .- Yesterday afternoon Officer Hammond arrested John Clifton, a wellry of the glorious battle of New Orleans. The De- known free man of color, charged with stealing a mocrats used to make a great day of it. We can bolt of cassinet goods from a German merchant in hardly guess what they will make of it now after the First ward. Clifton served his country in the war with Mexico in the capacity of waiter to Col. Themas of the Tennessee cavalry. He alleges that the German refused to pay him a just debt, and that he took the goods as the shortest method of effecting a collection.

> SIGNORITA BERTINI. - This celebrated Italian allad-singer, ventriloquist, and flutist will visit our city and give one concert here, in a short time. She is said to be a wonderful singer by the best musical critics who have heard her, and our citizens will have a rich musical treat in the proposed concert.

> ERIE CITY BANK CLOSED .- The Erie Gazette of Thursday says that this institution closed its doors at 11 o'clock yesterday. We have reason to know that in taking the step the officers only yielded to a constantly increasing outside pressure after making every possible effort to resist it.

The Pittsburg Post says that in conseque of the want of materials many of cotton mills in that city will have to suspend operations.

A SPECK OF ROMANCE.—THE WORTH OF A WIFE. A lovely widow, fair, fascinating, but not forty, residing on Main, between First and Brook streets, has been for some weeks the object of devoted attention on the part of a young gentleman of the city. He progressed so far, indeed, as an engagement. But between him and the consummation of his hopes there stalked a grim monster, in the shape of an ancient gentleman with a heavy purse. The yellow gold overbalanced the youth and good looks of the young man, and the venerable lover was accepted. Yesterday the couple were about starting out to celebrate their marital vows, when the first lover confronted them. The old chap was all alive with excitement and anticipatory pleasure. He consequently, in the exuberance of his soul, pulled out one hundred and fifty dollars from his pocket, and hoped the young man would be satisfied. The young man was satisfied, and although minus a wife is $150 in fends this morning.

A FINE HOTEL .- The growth of Mound City, Ilthe Jos. A. Oglesby and Arkansas Traveler are at linois, has been one of the marvels of the age, and not the least of its miraculous adornments is the magnificent Shelton House, a hotel of the first class, kept by R. B. Shelton, a genuine Kentuckian. Few of the larger cities can boast of a house of entertainment equal to the Shelton. It has all the appointments of a first class hotel.

> The Benton Democracy of Missouri appear to be very much exercised. A call is issued for a meeting at St. Louis, "to take into consideration the organization of the party for the spring contest, and also to consider the late message of Sterling Price to the Legislature of this State. All opposed to the libel on the city of St. Louis contained in said message, are invited to be present."

> The statement that the Electoral College of Wisconsin failed to meet on the day designated for the performance of its duty, in consequence of a snow-storm which blockaded the railroads, and that the vote of the State was thus lost, is an error. The vote of the State was cast for Fremont and Dayton,

The Red Men of this city hold another about riginal pow-wow, smoke, and war dance next Mon day night.

LOUISVILLE GAS WORKS .- The annual report a the Board of Directors of the Louisville Gas Company represents that institution in an exceedingly prosperous condition. As the city increases in size and the demand for light becomes greater, the Company extends its operations. We doubt not that Louisville is now the best lighted city in the West. The lack of an adequate supply of coal has however prevented that brilliance in the light for months which is so desirable. The same cause has also increased the expenditures and thereby diminished the profits of the concern. But we give the actual figures, as best indicative of the true condition of affairs:

THE PROVISION MARKET .- The market yesterday was, if anything, more buoyant than the day before. Several large sales of pork, packed elsewhere, were made. For city-packed $17 50 was asked and some would not sell at that. Bulk meat was held at 7, 81/2, and 9 cents for shoulders, ribbed sides, and hams, and prime bbl lard at 111/2@111/2c. New bacon was selling in lots at 71/2, 81/2, and 101/20 for shoulders, clear sides, and hams.

Private dispatches from New Orleans, of yester day's date, notice an advance in that market-mess pork being quoted $19 50, bacon shoulders 85%c and ribbed sides 91/2c.

The Cincinnati Price-Current says that packing will be finished there next week, and adds:

There has been an extensive speculative demand for lard and bulk meats, and the transactions in these articles have been very large—the market closing buoyant. Box meats have been sold for 9e for leng middles, and 9% for short do. Mess pork, city cut, was held firmly at the close at $17.50, and we understand $6.37 was offered for hogs and refused.

The receipts for the past three years have been as

For the seasen, 328,865; same time 1855, 255,255; same time 1854, 312,740.

The receipts at North Madison up to Saturday vening last were 40,357 head.

At St. Louis, on Tuesday, the following sales were Pork.—Sales of 500 bbls Mess at $17, present delivery; $00 do spring delivery, $17; 2,000 do future delivery, on private terms.

Lad.—Sale of 140 tes city at 11c, 350 do spring delivery at 12c, 16 bbls 10%c per fb.

The following is a report of the Keokuk market

on the 30th ult:

On the Sound:

Up to this time, we are informed, Messrs. White & Co have killed and packed 17,400 hogs: Patterson & Timber man about 10,000. White & Co, have 5,000 contracted ye to come in. The season is coming to a close much soone than was anticipated, and the number packed in this portion of the Mississippi valley will be much shorter than tion of the Mississippi valley will be much shorter than last year.

At Burlinton we understand that about 20,000 will be packed this year, against 68,000 reported last year. The pork men give it up that the crop is very short.

Messrs, J. Ruddick & Co., have packed about 10,000 head in iong middles for the English market, in Dr. White's best style and the lot is now for sale.

Heavy hoga are firm at $5 25.

All of our readers must reccollect the case of the heirs of Rev. Mr. Waring against the Nautilus Insurance Company. It was tried several times in our Circuit Court, and finally decided in favor of the heirs. The company took the case to the Court of Appeals, and that tribunal affirmed the decision of the court below. A note of the decision appears in our report of the Court of Appeals.

THE LYONNAISE PASSENGERS.—By the schooner Nancy J. Brayton, at New York, from Kingston, Jamaica, it is ascertained that none of the Lyonnaise assengers had arrived at that port, as reported. One of the steamer's boats, however-a square stern boat, apparently in good order-had been picked up by the brig Beauty, and from this, probably, the report of passengers saved arose.

The clerks in the Cincinnati post-office must still be under the influence of their Christmas holiday. We have had only occasionally, since then, a mail that was due. Last night there was a total failure, not even the Cincinnati papers were received. We feel obliged to the postmaster for these attentions, and so does all the Southwest.

We deeply regretted learning that our friend, and the friend of everybody of genial impulses and honorable actions, Mr. George Mellus, manager of the City Theater, was lying dangerously ill last evening. His life was despaired of by able physicians from hour to hour.

BALL FOR THE POOR -There will be to-night, at the Rescue Engine-House, a ball for the benefit of the poor of the Eighth ward. We trust that the festive occasion, having so noble an object, may prove eminently successful.

NEW BACON-First in Market.-The enterprising firm, Mitchell, Guthrie, & Co., opposite the Galt. House, have new bacon of their own euring for sale. Those who want a first-rate article should give them a call.

HIGH PRICED TOBACCO.—Two hogsheads of Virginia Tobacco were sold yesterday at the Ninth street warehouse by Ronald & Brent, to J. T. Edmonds, of the Falls City manufactory, for $20 60 per hundred.

Wm. H. Fogg has been elected Cashier of the Jeffersonville Branch of the State Bank of Indiana. Mr. F. is an accomplished book-keeper.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.-The Washington correscondent of the New York Journal of Commerce

Says:

New Year's was regarded here as a holiday for old and young, and all business was suspended, even that of the newspapers. During the visits and interchanges of salutations, at various places, it was evident that party and sectional lines were disregarded, and the best feeling appeared to prevail. Gen. Cass called upon Mr. Seward and other leaders of the Republican party, and was cordial with every one, which was considered, by some, as an indication that he will remain here for some time, in connexion with the Government. But even if he were on the 3d of March to bid farewell to Washington, he is not a man to cherish bitter feeling towards his political opponents. When he called upon Mr. Marcy, yesterday, some conversation occurred which wasquite amusing to the hystanders. Gen. Cas lead that Gov. Marcy will distinct and Gov. Marcy which showed very plainly that he knew that Gen. Cass was to take his place here.

It is said that Gov. Marcy will continue to remain here with his friends. Gen. Cushing will probably make this his permanent residence. I find that both Northern and Southern people, who have been compelled to reside here for any length of time, are reluctant to leave the place, and very anxious to get back to it, with or without office, but especially with.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Intelligencer of the 29th ult. says:

A friend, who had occasion a day or two ago to examina the records at the State road office, with a view of ascertaining the amount of copper ore brought down over that road during the present year 1856, has ascertained that twenty thousand nine hundred and thirty-two boxes have been transported. This would make abouts ix hundred and sixty-four car loads, or five thousand three hundred, and twelve tong.

For The Bardstown Gazette furnishes the following

tem:
On the 26th ult., a fight occurred between Chas. Metcaffe and Henry Bartley, in the neighborhood of Poj lar Neck, in this county, in which Bartley raqeived the concontrol of a shot can in his abdomen just below the nayel. He died about twelve hours after receiving the calfe was examined and held to bail in $300.

Pedantry is characteristic of only an imperfect Pedantry is characteristic of only an imperfect mind—a mind never in earaest except in seeking an opportunity to display its treasures—a mind that has never been impressed with the insufficiency of all human learning to answer the higher ends of life and to meet the demands of an immortal spart. No one, man or woman, whose spirit has been cast in the mould of Christianity, entertains the desire of learning much that he or she may thereby be better qualified only for disturbing society. Modesty, considerateness, humility—these are traits of the most highly cultivated.

We know something of the fascinations of literature and the attractions of science. At the same time

We know something of the fascinations of intera-ture and the attractions of science. At the same time-we confide in the power of truth, which is mighty above all things. We know that the discoveries of astronomers, chemists, and mechanical philosophers open an almost illimitable, a very lovely, and often seductive field of inquiry; we know that our poets and metaphysicians often unduly stimulate the imagination and arouse the intellect. We know, too, that Nature is less than God, and that "never man spake" like the man of Nazareth. And, therefore, we are sure, that, with a proper Christian training, the most deplorable evils, which ordinarily accompany a high order of female education, would no onger be known.

Understanding that a plan of education, which we have here rather glanced at than presented, is to be adopted in Christian Female College, we welcome the promise of its coming. When it shall have been established, it will, no doubt, be dedicated to Him, whose religion has always honored woman and still makes her, in all the enjoyments of nature and of grace—in everything but authority—co-equal with man.

THE COURT-HOUSE.

Saturday next, we are called upon to vote two hundred thousand dollars to complete the present court-house or doubted and well and the doubte settled which is to be done before asking this vote? We understand competent architects have expressed the opinion that the court-house can be completed, made comfortable, and well-adapted to the purposes for which it is intended for seventy or eighty thousand dollars. Let the Council employ the gentlemen, who have had the matter in hand to present their plans and estimates; let them be published, over their signatures, with the opinion of well-known gentlemen of judgment in such matters that the court-house so finished will meet its requirements, and, doubtless, the necessary tax will be voted; but we beg to be excused from voting two hundred thousand dollars until we are convinced that seventy or eighty will not kneet the demands of the county and the wants of the city. Let us not be told that no more will be levied than may be required. Experience teaches that requirements in such cases always absorb the largest amount to be had. The court-house ought to be rendered suitable for what it is intended and finished. We were promised, by the advocates of the present charter, that this should be done with the taxes now levied for ordinary city purposes. There is so little prospect of this promise being redeemed that we are willing, for the sake of getting clear of a nuisance and a disgrace, to contribute the means; but we are unwilling to give a hundred and twenty thousand dollars more than is necessary.

THE VARIETIES.

Returned .- The Hartford Times gives an account of Caroline Banks and her children and Mary Franois, slaves lately liberated by their mistress (Mrs Sarah Branch, of Chesterfield, Va.), who have voluntarily returned to bondage, after trying to support themselves in Boston as free people. They de clared that they had toiled constantly, and could searcely gain a subsistence, and wanted a master to

An electric cannon has been invented, to fire without a touch-hole by means of electricity. The con-ducting and non-conducting wires are introduced into the cannon during its manufacture, and cut off close to the surface, so that, in the event of the gun falling into the hands of the enemy, they would fail to discover, at least for some time, the way the cannon was discharged.

A writer in the New York Journal of Commerce says the following is a simple and effectual remedy for curing frosted feet, and one that will afford immediate relief: "Heat a brick very hot, and hold the foot over it as closely as it can be held without burning. Cut an onion in two, and, dipping it repeatedly in salt, rub it all over the foot. The juice of the onion will be dried into the foot, and effect a cure in a very short time. If this is done for a few times, it is almost certain to cure your feet entirely."

A celebrated lady once said of a censorious neighbor, "His mouth expense him nothing, for he always opens it at the cost of others. I wish that some day he would bite his tongue, for then he would poison himself."

A young lady, who was recommended to exercise for the benefit of her health, replied: "I will jump at an offer of marriage, and run my own risk, if that kind of exercise will do."

Reverence for Truth.—"My friend has a great reverence for truth," said a baronet to a gentleman. "So I perceive," was the reply, "for he always keeps a respectable distance from it."

Several stone battles have been fought, and some of the boys badly hurt. At the last fight fire-arms were brought into requisition, and a boy was wounded in the leg by a pistol shot.

Advertising .- The merchant who does not advertise liberally in the newspaper has been very appropriately compared to a man who has a lantern, but who is too stingy to buy a candle; he stumbles about in the dark long after all his more sensible neighbors have lighted themselves home. Business men should ponder the truth contained in this short paragraph.

An Anti-Vegetarian Virgin.—One of our north country pitmen, who had turned vegetarian, went a courting to a plucky lass in the colliery village, and "popped the question." "Oh," said she, "go along with you! Do you think I'm going to be flesh of your flesh, and you live on cabbages? No, indeed; I don't belong to the rabbit family."

A Worthy Cty Father. — Councilman Hugh O'Brien of the Fourteenth ward, New York, made a desperate assault upon a man last evening in a barroom in Prince street, near Elizabeth, and in attempting to bite his nose off inflicted a very serious wound. "A gentleman" has advertised in the London newspapers his body for sale, as he desires to "avoid the horrors and indignity of burial"-and also to raise a little money apparently. Diamond Cut Diamond.—The Albany Transcript gives an account of the operations of some ingenious villain in that city who is filling his pockets by pretending to sell, but not actually selling, counterfeit coin. It seems that, having first baited with a circular, he sends good coin to the applicants at his shop, who, having bought a small lot and found it to pass without objection, sends $50 or $100 for a larger supply, which he coolly pockets and shuts down the gate, leaving his fellow-knaves to whistle for their money.

THR FISHING BOUNTY .- Mention has been made n our telegraphic dispatches of the introduction into the Senate, on Friday, by Mr. Clay, of Alabuma, of a bill for the repeal of the fishing bounty. This bounty was originally granted in aid of the fisheries, as a nursery for seamen and as an equivalent for the duties paid by fishermen on the salt which they used in preparing their fish. A bill passed the House, a few days ago, for the payment of a small sum for the relief of the owners of a fishing vessel, which thad made an unlucky voyage, in consequence of bad weather. In the debate the subject, much hostility was manifested to the fishing bounty, and especially to construction bounties. The British Government also have demanded a repeal of these bounties, as necessary to give effect to the reciprocity system, the design of which was to give an American market for colonial fish on the same terms with our fish.

THE RESOLUTE-CAPT. HARTSTEIN'S RETURN The following is an extract from a letter from an American gentleman in London, dated December 19, which informs us that Capt. Hartstein and his officers and men will return to the United States in the English war steamer Retribution

The Queen treated Hartstein with marked attention at dinner and in the drawing-room. After-wards, she came up to him and said she wished to talk with him, and remained in familiar conversation for an hour. On leaving the Isle of Wight there was a great display of enthusiasm; as the ship passed out of the harbor, the shores were lined and the air rang with cheers. We were escorted by a steam yacht which is always in attendance on the ship—and the fine steam frigate Retribution which was also acting as an escort, and we were towed by a Government steamer. An Admiralty Messenger is also continually in attendance on the

On arrival at Spithead the ships saluted, and on entering Portsmouth harbor the transports were lined with people cheering and waving handker-chiefs; the military bands playing national airs, and the battery saluting. The Old Victory manned her rigging and cheered. There never was such entering the salution of hearth following the salutions. thusiasm and exhibition of heartfelt feeling—it is the event of the day, and is in every one's mouth. The government have insisted that the officers shall return in the steam frigate Retribution, and they will probably leave on the day after Christmas. On Tuesday Capt. Hartstein is invited to Lord Palmerston's country seat. It is to be hoped that on the arrival of the Retribution our government and people will do something to convince the officers of that ship, and by them the people and government of England, of our cordial reciprocation of their good will and friendship. Events of this nature happen rarely and they should not be allowed to pass without every nerve having been strained to convince the people of this great and good country of our sincere feelings of respect and a hearty desire to draw more closely the bonds of union and friendship.

The Admiralty have come to the almost positive determinists and such as the strain are distinct.

STATUARY FOR THE CAPITOL .- A correspondent STATUARY FOR THE CAPITOL.—A correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser, at Rome, gives a description of the fine statuary in Crawford's studio, designed for the Capitol at Washington, and for private citizens. The statue of "America," to be placed in the lofty dome, is thus described: "The figure is twenty feet high, and stands with the right thand restricted as about the description of the figure is twenty feet high, and stands with the right thand restricted as about the description of the first properties. On the breast are the initials of the United States, and a delicate drapery is so arranged as to form rays of light proceeding from the letters. The ample folds of an outer drapery fall majestically around the statue, leaving only the hands and a portion of the neck uncovered. For the usual cap, the artist has substituted a helmet, the crest of which is an eagle's head, with a richly-falling plume of feathers. The countenance is wondrously beautiful, full of dignity and lofty purpose, armestly and thoughtfully looking out into the great future."

COWHIDING AFFAIR AT GENEVA. - FOR weeks past the columns of the vulgar and libelous sheet, the Ledger, have contained the most disgusting and low-lived abuse of and slanders against Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of the Courier. These were borne on the part of Mr. J. until "forbearance ceased to be a virtue." On Saturday afternoon he pro-cured a rawhide, and proceeding to the Ledger office, in Liden block, administered a sound and most deserved chastisement upon the person of the Fowle publisher. The affair created no little excitement in town, eliciting the unanimous expression, "served

The same evening a woman, who had been unprovededly traduced and slandered through the same paper, was seeking an opportunity to inflict corporal punishment upon the slanderer, but hearing of her purpose he managed to elude pursuit.

NEW RUPTURES THREATENED. - The following alip from the Singapore Times of October 28th shows that there is some probability of renewed difficulties between the English and Chinese:

ficulties between the English and Chinese:

By the Shanhai and Malta we have advices from Hongkong to the 15th instant, and by the Fiery Cross and Lightning we have letters to the 18th. The latter two steamers bring us most important news, namely, the probability of a rupture between the Bridish and Ckinese governments and the threatened blockade of Cantan. The following particulars reached us in time for despatch by the mail steamer to Europe. It appears that the Canton Mandarines selzed a vessel—a borcha—under English colors, and cut off the heads of the crew. An explanation was promptly demanded, but no reply was made to the Consul's communication, whereupon a Mandarin junk was selzed by Commodore Elliott, of H. M. S. Sybille, and sent into Hongkong, with the view of forcing an immediate reply.
Such was the bad look-out kept that the Mandarin junk managed to escape during the night. Forty-eight heurs had been given to enable the Chinese authorities to reply to the Consul's reasonable demand; failing a satisfactory reply, a blockade of Canton was expected.

A SLAVE IN MAINE.—The Bangor Journal says "Some time since, we understand, a sea captain of Frankfort hired a slave in a Southern port to go to sea with him in the capacity of a servant to himself and wife. The slave becoming strongly attached to them, he prevailed upon them to purchase him, and he remains with the lady at Frankfort, voluntarily as a servant, taking care of the children, and making himself as useful as he has capacity for."

> THE PSALM OF OLD HUNDRED. NEW YORK, Dec. 30, 1856.

I find amongst the foreign items of your last even-ing's issue the statement that the "long-disputed question, whether Purcell or Handel was the author of the grand music of the Old 100th, has been set at rest by a discovery made a few days since in Lin-coln Cathedral Library, of a French Psalter, print ed in 1546, containing the identical music of that tune." That neither Handel nor Purcell was the author, was demonstrated so long ago as 1776, when Sir John Hawkins published his History of Music, and Dr. Charles Burney issued his equally celebrated work. Since their day, it has been com-mon to attribute the tune to Luther; but that he is not entitled to that credit is amply demonstrated in Haresgal's History of the Old Hundredth Pslam Tune (published by Mason Brothers, New York, in the spring of 1854), in which the venerable tune is traced to an English Psalter of the date of 1631 preserved in the library of St. Panl's Cathedral

London.

In this country, in Dr. Mason's Musical Library, is to be found a copy of the Huguenot Bible, published by Estienne, in Paris, 1557, under the title of Calendrier Historiel—an almanae, in fact—preceding the Old and New Testament, in order to disguise the book from the Catholic soldiery. At the end of this volume is found a reprint of the German Psalter, with Marot and Beza's Psalms, and Calmin's preface to the original issue, under date of vin's preface to the original issue, under date of Geneva, June 10th, 1543, where it is stated that "all the Psalms, with their music, were now printed the first time at Geneva." In this collection the Old Hundredth is found, in melody exactly as now found, but with a different rythmic form, the form of most of the old copies extant.

A Poisonous Snake.—A traveler in the interior of Africa, Charles L. Zeyher, gives an account, in Hooker's Journal of Botany, of a serpent which spits poison, known by the natives as spugg-slang or spitting snake. This serpent is not rare, he says, in the southwestern districts of Africa. It defends itself by throwing out a very caustic acid, having the odor of formic acid, which is sure to blind a person if it touches the eyes. He instances one of his dogs which was poisoned by one of these snakes, and which recovered after having been forced to swallow a great amount of new milk.

COLD WEATHER AND FROST BITES. - Tens of housands of persons suffer annually with frosted limbs, when they could easily be cured by using Porter's Oriental Life Liniment.

Eight hundred bottles of this Liniment were sold at the principal depot in this city on Monday, the 5th of January, nearly every bottle of w was bought especially for the cure of frost-bites. This great demand for the Oriental Life Liniment is in consequence of the universal success which has attended its use in the cure of frost-bites. It is a well-known fact that hundreds of old cases, of from ten to fifteen years' standing, have been permanently cured by the use of this valuable remedy.

New Books-New Books!

[For the Louisville Journal.]
THE REV. MR. DENISON'S SPEECH. THE REV. MR. DENISON'S SPEECH.

An ancient English traveler, Herbert, published a book of travels in 1634, devoted to Africa and Asia, of which a copy belonged to Dean Swift. The Dean's copy is yet in existence and contains this criticism in it, in his handwriting: "If this book were stript of its impertinence, conceitedness, and tedious digressions, it would be almost worth reading, and would be two-thirds smaller than it is. 1720, J. Swift." It strikes us that a similar stripping of Mr. Denison's speech at the meeting he 1720, J. Swift. It strikes us that a similar stripping of Mr. Denison's speech at the meeting he called for invoking the charities of the public, for a distribution of the Bible to hotels, hospitals, workhouse, and jail, might leave it clothed in a few tolerable rags. We are unable to imagine any one good motive that could have animated Mr. Denison on that accession an occasion that should have on that occasion, an occasion that should have roused all the noblest powers of a Christian mind to philanthropic and benevolent efforts for blessing the estitute with the word of God.

destitute with the word of God.

The managers of the Society, under whose auspices the meeting was called and who published the noble and excellent themes that were to be discussed, did not place Mr. Denison on their published programme for the perpetration of the deed upon which we are trying him. The trustees of the Church, to whose courtesy Mr. Denison was indebted for permission to enter the house on that occasion, gave him no warrant for his conduct. Neither the cause of Revision nor the friends of that cause have ever manifested the least desire to make war upon the benevolent enterprise in which the Louisville and Vicinity Bible Society is engaged. So far, indeed, are we from any such desire, that make war upon the benevolent enterprise in which the Louisville and Vicinity Bible Society is engaged. So far, indeed, are we from any such desire, that the objects of that Society command our warmest sympathies and approval. We should rejoice to see that Society able to place a copy of the Bible in the hands of every human being that needs it, and that can be induced to make use of it. We endeavor to show our faith by our works. The Society, upox receipts equal to $937 58, from eighteen churches and from various individuals, have given away, during the past year, ninety-two Bibles and one hundred and seven Testaments, while a single congregation in this city, devoted to the cause of Revision, which Mr. Denison regularly sneers at as "another little concern on the corner of Walnut and Fourth," have given away, in the same time, one hundred and eight Bibles, of King James's version, upon the voluntary contributions of the members. Does that look as though the friends of Revision were autagonistic to the objects of the Louisville and Vicinity Bible Society? Why should Mr. Denison attempt to involve that Society in one of his own miserable controversies?

In this state of case, what could have warranted Mr. Denison in sowing deagon's teeth where there miserable controversies?

In this state of case, what could have warranted Mr. Denison in sowing dragon's teeth where there were peace and a strong tie of sympathy? What good spirit on earth could have prompted his outrages upon the Bible Union and the Revision Association? What excuse can he muster to his service for the desecration of the interesting services of a Bible meeting on a day that christians consecrate to the worship of Jesus Christ, of a church to whose courtesy he was indebted for the opportunity of speaking, and of a pulpit that is not his own? It belongs not to mortals to delve into the recesses of the human heart for the motives that stir it to its inthe human heart for the motives that stir it to its iniquities, but we may learn something of these se-crets by looking at the acts of a man, and the only rational view that we can take of the animus of Mr. rational view that we can take of the animus of Mr. Denison on the occasion alluded to is, that he was overflowing with long-pent up malice, that hungered and thirsted for revenge. Of the truth of this view, we think our readers will be satisfied when we develop the speech of the reverend gentleman. And if the exposition we make of Mr. Denison shall enable him to root from his heart, malice, that source of unnumbered wrongs, our labor will be a blessing to him. Peter admonishes Christians not to use their liberty as a cloak for maliciousness. That dreadful passion taints everything it touches, darkens the avenues of reason, poisons the atmosphere of contemplation, and the faculty of speech, is easily stirred into action, and when astir dries up and withers justice, truth, and righteousness. These are not the ornaments nor the weapons of the Chriswithers justice, truth, and righteousness. These are not the ornaments nor the weapons of the Christian. The living element of his character is expressed in that sublime and immortal declaration: "He is free, indeed, whom the truth makes free." Nothing but truth can give freedom to human thought and action, and enable the human soul to re-thought and action, and enable the human soul to return to the image of its maker.

The profound and bitter hatred which Mr. Denison exercises toward the cause of Revision and all its friends is precisely the kind that good, righteous, and holy efforts have always received for attempts to throw light upon the word of living truth. Wickliffe and Tyndale and Frith were hunted down as though they had been wild beasts, for the crime of attempting to translate the Scriptures into English. When Capellus wrote a work against the divinity of the Hebrew points and another for various lections in the Hebrew text itself, he excited as much of an uproar in the Reformed Churches as though he had professed Atheism. He was charged with he had professed Atheism. He was charged with making infidels! When Erasmus performed his illustrious labor in printing the text of inspiration for the first time in the language in which it was written, Lee and Stunica hastily rushed into the position now occupied by Mr. Denison toward Revision.—They abused, calumniated, and villified Erasmus as though he were a monster in crime. He also was thus making infidels, according to these saintly ad-versaries, who never seemed to imagine the infinite nourishment that wickedness could draw from their labors and example, rather than from the calm, learned, and righteous acts of Erasmus. The names of Erasmus and Capellus are now embalmed in the memories of all who love the truth of God. But in keeping with the conduct of the enemies of Capellus and Erasmus and all of every age, who, like them, have undertaken to remove rubbish from the words of God to man, Mr. Denison, in his speech at the First Presbyterian Church, announced that the Revision Association and Bible Union were producing similar effects, and that he was personally cognizant of the fact. In all decent logic, it is considered that, when a man is so hard pressed that he has to bring his personal experience to bear upon an opponent, he has completely broken down in argument, and has run dry of facts and truth. We shall not attempt to bring our personal experience to bear in opposition to Mr. Denison's, although we could surprise him with some facts on this subject to which epposition to Mr. Denison's, although we could sur-prise him with some facts on this subject, for which we could furnish localities, names, and all other re-quisite evidences. Nor shall we give his statement a contradiction, for it is not only not worth it, but it is beneath contempt. This appeal to personal experience is quite a favorite movement with Mr. Deni-son. In his discussion on Baptism, in which his Greek was foundered, he boldly asserted that he had

Greek was foundered, he boldly asserted that he had known instances in which Immersion had destroyed life, as if he had never heard of instances in which faith in Jesus Christ had done the same thing.

Mr. Denison claims great superiority for Protestantism over the Roman Catholics in urging the study of the Scriptures among the people, but he, and all who join in that cry, might learn some useful lessons from some of the Catholic clergy in those matters. Bishop Kenrick has made a noble revision of the New Testament alike creditable to his fidelity and his scholarship, and in it he urges all Cathoof the New Testament anke creatable to his nucli-ty and his scholarship, and in it he urges all Catho-lies to study the word of God for themselves, in or-der that each individual may learn the mind of the Holy Spirit for himself. The Bishop's revision is an invaluable contribution to the study of the life of Jesus Christ, of the founding of Christian congrega-tions and of their instruction in all spiritual mat-Jesus Christ, of the founding of Christian congregations, and of their instruction in all spiritual matters. Its appeals to the Greek text are numerous.

And when Stunica ran to old Cardinal Ximenes (to whose noble labors the world is indebted for the Complutensian text of the New Testament), and, in the very spirit of Mr. Denison, with horror springing from his eyes, informed the Cardinal that Erasmus had anticipated the Complutensian text, that noble prelate administered a lesson to Stunica, by which Mr. Denison might profit in his thoughts about Revision. Ximenes replied to him:
"I would that all men might thus prophecy (referring to Num. xi: 29): produce what is better, if thou ranet, do not condemn the tadustry of another."

In the commencement of Mr. Denison's notorious spee th, he seemed to have a singularly accurate apprecia ion of the character of the labors he was about to perform. He was somewhat apologetic, and rema ked that, "if his audience should find themselves bored with his subject, they might enjoy the constation of knowing that there was another congregation in the city equally bored." He did not seem to reflect that that congregation also had its consolations—first, that it was not bored with the same instrument that was about to inflict tions, and of their instruction in all spiritual mat-

the punishment upon the audience before Mr. Denison, and, secondly, that it was not tricked into the infliction by false pretences. The ornamental fringe with which Mr. Denison graced this part of his opening referred to President James Shannon.

With great dignity he said that the newspapers had announced one day that Professor or President Shannon—he thought that was the name, as though the contempt might annihilate that centleman—

Shannon—he thought that was the name, as though his contempt might annihilate that gentleman—would make an address on revision; on a subsequent day, it was announced that he had been requested by the Revision Association to deliver an address that night; and again, on Saturday, it was published that a number of gentlemen, who were unable to hear the address of Thursday night, had requested him to address them on Saturday night. And with a delicate sense of propriety Mr. Denison said he did not know whether there had been three addresses or one discourse and failures. Now common honesty should have taught him, if he knew nothing on the subject to be a silect but when it is ing on the subject, to keep silent, but, when it is remembered that Mr. Denison could have ascertained truth instead of calling up trains of figments, the character of the animus that inspired him is ev-

From this pleasant exordium, Mr. Denison branched off into an attack upon the Revision Association. Throughout the whole of his speech he seemed to adopt Dugald Stewart's definition of the office of language, slightly altered for this occasion. Mr. Stewart said, "the office of language is not so much to convey ideas as to call up trains of thought." Mr. Denison's course seemed to add "such as I desire." He, therefore, undertook to make his audience believe that "the little concern on the corner of Walnut and Fourth streets." as he on the corner of Walnut and Fourth streets," as he with supreme dignity called the rooms of the Revision Association, was engaged in making transla-tions of the Bible! There is not a shadow of reason for this callumny, more than that it suited his views to utter it. No word has ever been uttered by the Revision Association to give a pretext for any such fabrication; nothing has ever been said or done to justify the representation. But Mr. Denison could justify the representation. But Mr. Denison could not have loomed out more largely upon this gross deception, if he had had documentary evidence before him to sustain his averments. Upon this false predicate he fairly boiled over, and he turned to Prof. Stuart Robinson and asked him if he believed there were on this continent six scholars capable of doing justice to these matters, in comparison with European scir orry to learn that Professor Robinson, who is himself a scholar, thought that there were not more than that number. Now we think that the Presbyterian Church alone has more than that number of Biblical scholars in America whe are fully equal to any six Biblical scholars in Europe. The "train of thought," which Mr. Deni-Europe. The "train of thought," which Mr. Denison desired to call up, is, if this is the meagre condition of American scholarship in point of numbers, how contemptible must be the efforts of "the little concern on the corner of Walnut and Fourth?" But how little did the audience think that Mr. Denison ranks as one in this scarce American scholarship. We think we can establish his

In his book, entitled "Unitarian Views Reviewed," he quotes a passage from King James's version, and says, "or as it should be translated and punctuand says, "or as it should be translated and punctuated, "whose are the Fathers, and of whom (according to the flesh) Christ, who is over all God, blessed forever." He adds: In vain will other constructions be put upon this verse. The Greek as it stands is confirmed by all the manuscripts, all the ancient wersions, and nearly all the fathers." Now, if Mr. Denison is able to restread to an appropriate one versions, and nearly all the fathers." Now, if Mr. Denison is able to re-translate and punctuate one verse of King James's version to such a degree of perfection that all the Biblical scholarship of the world can see it in no other light than that in which his version presents it, what is to hinder him from retranslating and re-punctuating the entire New Testament? We confess that neither the Bible Union, or "the little entern or the convex of Welmand." nor "the little concern on the corner of Walnut and Fourth," has any scholar employed who can make translations that can have "no other constructions put upon them" than such as the translator gives. If Mr. Denison can as perfectly estimate the Constructions If Mr. Denison can as perfectly satisfy the Commit-tee on Versions, of the Bible Union, respecting his perfections as a revisor, as he seems to be satisfied himself, he can easily get a profitable contract and obtain the entire control of the revision of the New Testament. We hope he'll try. There is one thing that we are a little at a loss about. His construction is gained by punctuation, and, with a Hellenistic sweep, he says "the Greek as it stands is confirmed sweep, he says "the Greek as it stands is confirmed by all the manuscripts, all the ancient versions, and nearly all the Fathers." Now neither the ancient manuscripts nor ancient versions had any points for punctuation, and we are at a loss to understand how they can give countenance to the construction that defies all criticism. But we have some serious questions for Mr. Denison. Where did he see all the manuscripts, or all the ancient versions? And where did he acquire the art of reading the ancient manuscripts, for a man may be a great Greek scholar without being able to read a verse of the ancient manuscripts? And if he condemns King James's version in a single verse, as improperly translated and punctuated, is he not unsettling the minds of the people as to what the Bible teaches? And if an immaculate construction of one verse can be obtained by re-translation, by a new punctuation, and a comparison with "all the manuscripts all the surject versions and possible all the scripts, all the ancient versions, and nearly all the Fathers," may not all the verses of the new Testa-ment be made equally immaculate by the same process? And is it not a matter of solemn, imperative duty on the part of all who love the Holy Oracles to attain this desirable result? And if it is, what beomes of Mr. Denison's warfare on revis all his "tedious digressions" in his speech, while talking of the excellence of King Jamee's version, on which he has himself affixed the seal of condemnation? Out of thine own mouth do w

After the onslaught on the Revision Association, in that majestic style, that classic, tasteful, and beautiful language, and in that elevated dignity that characterized every movement of his speech, after building up his calumny as to the translating labors of the Revision Association, Mr. Denison asked—"Can an eagle be hatched from a duck egg?" We shall answer that question when we come to examine some of his broodings over Greek words and classic literature. If an eaglet does not come, Mr. Denison must determine the character of the

We must reserve to another occasion our examination of the remaining statements, charges, and follies of Mr. Denison. A large portion of his speech was a rehash of the matters he used in "the Discussion," and on which he was fully answered then, so fully indeed, that, while we have distributed thousands of that work, Mr. Denison has never ordered a copy of it for any of his friends. Indeed, he flattered himself that probably not ten persons present at his Sunday night exhibition had ever read the discussion, thus showing the low estimate he placed upon the solicitude of the public to know what he liad to say in behalf of the Bible in common use. We shall not again notice any of these matters thus disposed of, but confine our feture remarks to Mr. Denison's new criminations against the friends of Revision. On each of those, we shall meet him fully.

Senate.—Mr. Weller reported a bill to increase the pay of officers of the army, and gave notice that he shoul deall it up at an early day.

The consideration of the Iowa election was resumed.

Mr. Bayard argued against the right of Mr. Harlan to a seat. When, he said, two integral bodies are to perform any act, both must be present at the time, or it cannot be constitutionally done. In the present case it was admitted that the Senate of Iowa as a body did not participate in the election, nor did a quorum of that body vote on the occasion. Therefore, Mr. Harlan was voted for by only one branch of the Legislature.

fore, Mr. Harlan was voted for by only one branch of the Legislature.

Mr. Foster, replying, contended that after the Convention was duly organized by the concurrence of the two branches of the Legislature, it remained in session, and could be dissolved only by a vote of the majority of the Convention, or by the withdrawal of such a number of members as to leave less than a quorum present. The members ceased to act in their capacity as Senators and Representatives, but were to be counted numerically. Mr. Harlan having received a majority of all the votes of all the members of the Convention, was thereby legally elected. If the sixteen Senators who absented themselves had all been present and voted against Harlan, he would all been present and voted against Harlan, he would still have been elected, and how then could their absence prevent his election?

Mr. Seward obtained the floor, when the Senate collaborated to Evident.

House. — A motion to print extra copies of the President's message being under consideration, Mr. Barclay said the only effect of that document would be to increase, if that were possible, the contempt which now exists throughout the country for its author. He would not endorse nor appear to sanction its misrepresentations by sending it to the public printer. He would rather send it to some obscure and dirty corner of the basement of the capiscure and dirty corner of the basement of the capi-tol. He entered his protest against the language therein contained. The President was elected with therein contained. The President was elected with unanimity, and on the most solemn pledges not to re-open the slavery question. He was scarcely warm in his seat before the confidence reposed in him by the people was violated, and he launched out into the boisterous ocean of agitation. The first leading measure of the administration was to repeal the time-honored compromise. Let gentleman disguise it as they may, that alone has been the cause of the great troubling of the waters. That unnecessary, reckless, and iniqitous measure struck the Democratic party in the free States with terror. The people tic party in the free States with terror. The people, basely betrayed, dared to remenstrate with the independence of freemen, and dared to denounce such usurpation of power. Its chief authors, aiders, and abettors, were executed wherever human rights were cherished or political honesty was respected. The execution extended to the White House and compared to the investigation of the control of the control of the whole of the white House and compared to the white House and the transfer to the transfer to the white House and the transfer to the white House and the transfer to th pelled its inmate to tremble like a convicted crimin-al. He was rejected by the Cincinnati convention, and like an old horse which had served its master, and like an old horse which had served its master, he was turned out to grass.

While the committee thus repudiated him, by their acts, they endorsed the measures of his administration—a singular effect of the coercive power of public plunder. Now his hopes are blasted. The Chief Magistrate, forgetful of his high postion, takes occasion, under the shied of duty and the Constitution to attack and arraign as traiters eithers who tion, to attack and arraign as traitors, citizens who are quite as intelligent if not as honest and patriotic as himself. With regard to the President's lanas himself. With regard to the President's language respecting the alleged revolutionary purpose of the Republicans, he denounced it as gross calumny, and no proof whatever could be adduced to support the Presidents declaration. It only showed the depth of degradation to which the President has descended. He reviewed the message in order to show the untenable position of the President in regard to the slavery question. gard to the slavery question.

Gov. Pollock's message was read to the Legislature to-day. It represents the financial condition of the State as satisfactory. The State debt decreased during the year $366,000. The message calls the attention of the Legislature to the prevention of illegal voting, favors reform in the naturalization laws by the national government, and recommends stricter guards upon the extension of the rights of citizenship by State courts; alludes to the repeal of the Missouri compromise, and condemns the conduct of officials in Washington and Kansas to force slavery upon an unwilling people, and says that Pennsylvania expects and demands that Kansas shall be free. REMARKABLE POSITION OF THE PLANETS.—At the present time, and until the end of January, all the old planets and the two of importance discovered within seventy-five and ten years, will be vis-ible soon after sunset, and five of them west of the meridian—a position worthy of particular notice, as it may not again occur for years.

Mercury, in consequence of its proximity to the sun, is usually invisible, so that many persons have never seen it. There will be a very favorable opportunity for viewing it in this month, especially from about the 7th to the 20th, as it will not only be at its greatest eastern elongation on the 15th but its at its greatest eastern elongation on the 15th, but its south declination will be much less than that of the sun, so that on the 11th it will not set in the W. S. W. until an hour and a half later. It will appear as a reddish star of the first magnitude. After the 20th it rapidly returns to the sun, and soon disap-

Venus, although already very brilliant, will continue to become more so until about April 1st. Its greatest eastern elongation takes place on February 27, and inferior conjunction on May 9. So that for four months our evening western sky is to be ornamented by this beautiful planet.

Mars will be in conjunction early in June it is Mars will be in conjunction early in June; it is, therefore, in that part of its orbit most remote from the earth, and shines with a faint reddish light. It is now a very little west of Venus, in the W. S. W., is now a very little west of Venus, in the W. S. W., but the distance is rapidly increasing.

Jupiter, "the great disturber of the system," goes down exactly in the west; although also approaching its conjunction (April 11), and therefore the more distant part of its orbit, its light is not apparently less than when in opposition in September. This evening, at sunset, it will be about two degrees west of the moon, by which it was eclipsed in France, Great Britain, &c. Great Britain, &c.

Uranus, which sets in the W. N. W., and Neptune in the W. by S., although many times larger than the earth, cannot be seen without the aid of a tele-scope. The former will be in conjunction May 15, the latter March 10.

Saturn came into opposition two days since, and therefore now rises in the N. E. by E., a few minutes before sunset. This planet is now in a favorable situation for observation through a powerful telescope, as it attains a great altitude, and the rings, although not quite as open as in 1856, are much more so than usual. They will henceforth gradually contract, and in 1860 will cease to be visible through any telescope except that at Cambridge, and perhaps half a dozen others of similar
